

Handout 4

Why is social-emotional development important?

Confident and emotionally secure children:

have more positive peer relationships make friends more easily do better at school and in future achievements have higher self-esteem are more motivated and enthusiastic form close relationships are more flexible